South Africa The Struggle For

Liberation Struggle in South Africa. Although Apartheid only 'officially' started in 1948, repression was rife in South Africa long before that date. This special project examines the Freedom Struggle from the beginning of the 20th century up until South Africa's first democratic election in April 1994. This archive presents this history in two parts, namely; Emerging African Nationalism and Working-Class and Popular Resistance 1900-1950s, and The Armed Struggle and Popular Resistance ...

Those most outraged by the system of discrimination became anti-apartheid activists and in so doing risked imprisonment, torture and exile. Much of the 20th century in South Africa was characterized by this struggle for justice and racial equality. This was compounded by the struggle for gender equality, both in South Africa and the world over. The system of patriarchy and the 'women's work' stereotype had to be broken before women, particularly Black women, could achieve equal status ...
